She was preceded in death by her parents; brothers, Lawrence Weaver Jr and Frank Weaver Sr; sisters Mary Thomas and Frances Porter; son Donald Conway Sr; a great-great granddaughter, Abigail Surrat and adopted mother Juanita Broughton. She received Christ at an early age as a member of Morning Star Missionary Baptist Church where she would serve until her last days.

Barbara was educated in the Kansas City School district, graduating from Lincoln High School class of 1958. After high school, she started her working career at Meyer Green restaurant. From there she would continue her love of cooking at Menorah hospital, until being presented with a position at Booker T Washington. It was in her role as Librarian that she discovered the love and importance of education. Barbara continued in this role until accepting a position with Goodwill Industries. Believing that everyone deserves to be happy, she would encourage coworkers, discuss her love of family, and assist them with their daily activities after beloved receptionist. She would continue in this humanitarian type role for thirty seven years until her retirement in 2013.

Barbara was married to Ronald Conway in 1962. She raised five children: Ira, Demetreia, Ronette, Donald, and Leona. Barbara had many hobbies such as sewing, cooking, working crossword puzzles, and family time, but the one thing she found the most joy in was serving the Lord.
