“ I spent a tremendous amount of time with the Loyds - especially Sarge. Miss Patricia, Sarge and I would sometimes go have breakfast at Niece's, we went to the boats to get rich, we rode around the city, had frequent BBQs, got drunk together, and worked in Miss Patricia's second hand store. He was there when I needed to go somewhere and he was there when I needed someone to help me move. My daughter, Londyn, was just another one of the grandkids, as she and Draviontay were always together- besties... cousins. (RIP, Chucky💙). I would always try and help he and Miss Patricia with anything I could but I think my favorite memory was when Sarge set up a lawn chair in their driveway and taught me how to work on his truck. It was difficult for him to get under there and do what he needed to do, so he sent me in and trained me from the sidelines on how to do all kinds of things to a vehicle (well, his truck anyway-lol). He always called me “Wonder Woman” - I guess because I was able to do things that maybe he didn't expect me to be able to do. I will always hold tight to the memories and all of your wild war stories. You were the closest thing to an uncle that I had and I hope to meet up with you again one day. You are forever in my heart, Sir. Rest in peace, Sargent Pepper. 💜
