“ To the Wright Family Sorry to hear about the passing of Marshall Wright Jr. Our thoughts and prayers are with the entire family. Yes we understand the hardship that the family is now dealing with. There is not one person that has not lost someone in death. So now we find ourselves deeply sadden over the lost of a special family member or friend. It is just as the scriptures states, that we find ourselves in the house of mourning. ( Ecclesiastes 7:2) In this place we can give thought about those whom we have lost in death. It also gives us the time to reflect about what we are doing with our lives personally. We can also think about this question; if a person dies can He live again? No this is not a new question. Servants of God have thought about this question for a long period of time. Their hearts were greatly comforted when they saw the answer that God provided for all who were heavy at heart. Job was one such person who asked, if a man dies can He live again? He was able to answer correctly yes.( Job14:13-15) Job knew that God was the source of all created life; so the restoring of it was surely something that God come do. In fact in the able text, God has a desire or yearning to restore life back to our love ones, and He will. So we should not be surprised when He recorded this promise. He tells us that soon He would call to those in the grave, and that our love ones would hear His voice and stand up in life again.( John 5:28-29 and Acts 24:15) Both of these text serves as a personal guarantee from God that Marshall, and billions of other people from all over the world will stand up in life again, and be reunited back with their family members and friends. Now does this sound too good to be true? Even God understands how many may have a lack of faith in this arrangement; after all they have been seeing their family members and friends die right before their very eyes. So to help all to develop strong faith in the resurrection blessing, God has preserved nine accounts that serves as a future preview of this grand blessing soon to take place earth wide. Here is just one on the many examples recorded at John 11:32-44. Why not allow the reading of the verses to provide true comfort for your grieving hearts. So please keep this promise from God near your hearts at all times. Yes you will see Marshall. and many other family members and friends who have fallen asleep in death. Yes we have God's personal promise. Remember that when God makes a promise, it becomes a reality. Yes it is impossible for God to lie.( Titus 1:2)
